Inquest Report of Jarysto's Death

Gleichen People have been much interested in the accident at Brooks in which two men were killed, W. Watmough of Hanna and K. Jarysto. The latter was very well known here and his death has been a subject of much interest. All here were anxious to learn the outcome of the inquest. Below is a report taken from The Brooks Bulletin.

Walter Watmough, 29, of Hanna and K. Jarysto of Edmonton, a Polish "displaced person," met death as the result of crushing while working in a water-line trench on Wednesday, September 21, a coroner's jury determined, at Brooks, Alta.

The inquiry was presided over by Dr. H. G. Claxton, local coroner.

Given evidence by Dr. W. C. Prowse, who was called to the scene of the accident at about 11:20 a.m. indicated that Watmough and Jarysto, whose bodies were recovered, only a few minutes after the case-in. He said that Jarysto had suffered a fractured neck and Watmough a crushed chest. However, he said, every possible measure had been taken to resuscitate the men.

REFUSED CRIBBING

Eugene Schmidt, of Edmonton, operator of the power shovel for Adity Construction Co., which had the contract for the construction of water lines in Brooks for the town, testified that he had asked Jarysto and Watmough if they required cribbing. Jarysto, whom he described as the "lead" of the crew on the project, was said to have refused.

Schmidt was operating the shovel at the time of the accident and saw the men give way and cover the men. He said that Jarysto, a fairly experienced operator, had been given the job, had tested the side of the trench with a shovel before the two commenced laying the pipe, and appeared satisfied that there was no danger. There had been no other cause of the particular accident of which the witness was aware.

S. E. Lester, of Gleichen, foreman of the crew, told the jury that there was cribbing material on hand and that the practice of the company is to have it available when the men start to work.

On the other hand, the "lead" of Calgary Power was constantly increasing. More farm systems are being hooked up every day. New developments are demanded of the men and getting large supplies of lumber.

The Spray project, which will start running out power in 13 months will almost double the Company's output. It will take a year to get its tongue in use until the next spring.

In the meantime the water shortage is greatly aggravating what would have been a serious crisis even with a good supply of lumber.

The company hopes to get through the winter with no serious power rationing, but only the weatherman will decide.

In the meantime all possible steam-generated electricity is being used. The company is concluding a new agreement with Edmonton's large new municipal steam plant, whereby it will obtain about 90,000,000 kilowatt hours in the next month at a cost of about half a cent per kilowatt hour. Further, Calgary Power is buying from Canadian steam plants, and from the Lethbridge plant. It operates the 14,000-kilowatt steam plant at Calgary and is currently preparing to form a half-coal half-gas basis to all-gas.

The agreement with Edmonton, is reciprocal. Calgary Power agrees to supply Edmonton in emergencies. During the winter, when power is scarce when all of Edmonton was suddenly cut off, Calgary Power met its commitment, although it had to cut down the nitrogen plant at Calgary from 27,000 to 7,000 kilowatts to do so.

Although every drop of water in Bow is being carefully conserved and utilized in this emergency, it will be realized that even with low water precipitation and light spring runoff, the water supply will be short at least in May, with much of the runoff going right past the several plants and serving no useful purpose anywhere on its long flight to Hudson Bay. If more water were available, however, it would be a different story.

"We are very much concerned about the situation that is developing," G. A. Gaherty, president of Calgary Power Ltd.

Calgary Power, which serves Calgary and much of southern Alberta (southern Alberta, the Gleichen district, and most of its power from the Bow River system above Calgary. All of its five hydro plants are dependent upon mountain run-off for their water. Last winter the snowfall was light, but normal and since the precipitation in the mountains has been exceedingly light. The Calgary figures, 4.74 inches since 12.13 inches, suggest how serious a comparison with a normal of

OBITUARY

WILLIAM GEORGE VARNDELL

William George Varnell, a resident of Gleichen for many years, died last Thursday afternoon in Belcher Military hospital in Calgary after a long illness, at the age of 77 years.

Mr. Varnell was born in London, England, and headed for Canada to Canada in the '60s and came direct to Gleichen in May 1915. Following the outbreak of World War I he enlisted in the 60th Battalion in Calgary in February 1915. Later he was transferred to the Canadian 2nd Battalion Canadian Machine Gun Corps, went overseas in June 1917 and served until May 1919. Upon returning home with his family moved to the coast. After living there for four years he returned to Gleichen in 1924. Here he served with the 22nd Field Battery from November 1924 to June 2nd, 1940.

When he was overseas he was present with men of gun crews for several years and began to suffer from its effects and for the past couple of years he was confined to Belcher hospital on several occasions.

Described as survived by his wife, one daughter and three sons, in several years he began to suffer from his effects and for the past couple of years he was confined to Belcher hospital on several occasions.

Described as survived by his wife, two sons, Ted of Queensland and George of Calgary; a brother in England and a sister in Australia. He was predeceased by a daughter, Marion, some nine years ago.

The funeral took place Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock with services being conducted in St. Andrews Church by Rev. Mr. Ford of Okotoks, who was a former minister here. The service was large and many floral offerings showed the high esteem in which Mr. Varnell was held. The members of the local legion turned out in force also present were many friends from a distance.

The pall bearers were members of the Legion and all veterans of World War I, namely Messers Bert Reid, R. Hunter, W. Campbell, S. Kier, S. Hampton and A. Quennell.

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY—

Something New

By RUSSELL WILSEY

GEORGE RANDOLPH lay staring at the ceiling, his mind hovering on sleep. That Agnes Davidson, George thought, she's the talk of the town. Now, if I could just afford to buy that television set, I suppose the Davidsen will be dropping in every night. Why the devil did I let Jane talk me into it?

George's eyes fluttered shut and his mind began to teeter over the brink.

"George!" It was Jane, in a sharp whisper.

"Hush!" George responded sleepily.

"Get up! There's somebody downstairs!"

George sat up and heard it too, in the living-room.

George silently slipped out of the closet. He had his shotgun, reserved for rare days of duck hunting, and chambered a shell.

He held the gun in the folds of a sailor suit and crept along, the shotgun being held in his hand and he snapped it shut with a muffled click.

Moving cautiously, he stepped out into the hall and went up the stairs. There he heard the steps. Then he again heard the footfalls.

Holding his gun ready, George descended the stairs and stepped out of his hand along the wall until he found the light switch. Nothing happened. The room remained in darkness.

Immediately there flashed across George's mind the recent headlines in the papers: "BURGLAR BURGLED THE AGATE." The burglar who uncrossed all the light bulbs so he could escape in the dark.

The man now, in the dark room must have heard the switch. George could sense him moving towards the living room. The sweat trickled into George's eyes. He reached behind his pajamas sticking to his back. He bent at the knees and began to creep along the wall.

It was then, against a table with a slight bump. His hand ran across a smooth, cool sheet of glass. It was the switch! The burglar tripped.

There was something, he thought, that he should remember. Something Jane had told him about. And then he located the dial. He bent by touch, he found a dial on the set and twisted it as far as it would go to the right. Then he located another dial. It began to turn. It slowly turned it slowly until it clicked sharply.

From the corner of his eye George caught the sudden movement in the shadows of the arch connecting the living and dining rooms. The burglar was in the room with him now.

The burglar hurriedly stepped out. Then a weird line ran across the screen. It blossomed into a soft but strong light that filled the room.

The burglar cast a hasty picture of the trigger.

When he was condemned robbery in hospital and police hands, George told the story over and over.

SELECTED RECIPES

LUNCHEON SQUARES

Mix together: 20 Graham Wafers, rolled fine 1/2 cup white sugar

Divide this mixture in half and make two squares. Bake for 5 minutes. Meanwhile, make the following filling:

1/2 cup white sugar
1/4 cup flour
2 eggs
3 tablespoons hot water

Cook the apples until tender, then add this over the baked portion of the wafer mixture. Beat the eggs and add to the filling. Add the other half of the filling. The wafer mixture and cake from 2 to 5 minutes.

CARROTT PINWHEEL MEAT LOAF

1 pound ground beef
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
1 onion, minced
1 egg

1 tablespoon catsup
1/2 cup bread crumbs

1/2 cup shredded raw carrots
2 tablespoons minced parsley

Thoroughly mix all ingredients except carrots and parsley. Roll on sheet of wax paper with a wet rolling pin until 1/2 inch thick, 6 inches wide and about 1/2 inch thick.

Spread with catsup and roll like jelly roll. Place in shallow baking pan and bake in moderate oven (350 deg. F.) for 1 hour.

"Mr. Randolph," the sergeant asked, holding his notebook, "would you mind going over it again? I don't think I got it exactly straight."

"Not at all," the burglar answered with a smile. "When I found I couldn't turn the lights on, I remembered our new television set. You see this screen is a mirror. It reflects the light of light you get on the screen. When you turn it up as strong as it'll go, you get enough light to fill up the room."

"Then I turned it up as high as I could, then I reached over and got the trigger."

"Your wife's fond smile meant anything else, it was strictly between them."

DEALING WITH

PREDATORS OUTLAWS AT LARGE

Your Co-operation
IS REQUESTED IN THIS SURVEY

To assist in a factual appraisal of actual losses caused by predators the Western Stock Growers Association is asking Farmers and Stockmen to supply the following information:

1. What damage and number of livestock have you lost to various predators during 1949.
2. Have you sustained damage or losses in poultry, or livestock by cougars, bears or other predators?
3. What losses have been caused by humans or rustlers?

The purpose in securing this information is to place the facts before the government in a concerted effort to get effective action to control these predators.

REFRIGERATIONS IN THE HOME

Refrigeration of some type is essential in every home, says Miss

Sheila Forrest district home economist for the Department of Agriculture. Refrigeration aids in controlling food spoilage, maintains the value of food, and provides for convenience in meal preparation. With refrigerator in the home, food can be purchased in larger quantities,

fewer shopping trips are required,

and time and energy saved.

When using a refrigerator, the size of two is a six cubic foot refrigerator.

One cubic foot should be allowed for each additional person in the family. A family of six, for instance, will require an eight cubic foot storage space.

When storing food keep in mind

the following rules:

Food should be covered in plastic wrap, paper, or foil.

Keep meat in the store wrappings.

Ground meats, or variety meats

are highly perishable. Store in freezing compartment unless inclosed and kept in the ventilated meat keeper.

If meat is not to be used immediately

keep it wrapped in plastic wrap.

Wash trim, and drain greens before storing in crisper.

Berries need air circulation.

Store from box, spread on tray or plate, and cover with wax paper. Do not wash until ready to serve.

Never store bananas in your refrigerator.

When not using the refrigerator

space, clean it out.
